

The tree in the foreground is practically dead, smothered by the Sycanore and having suffered annual flooding. The hot Summer has probably been the last straw. The conifer to its left is not quite as bad, but has a lot of brown foliage.

