Comments:	We have just read this planning application in great detail. [redacted], We must admit that this kind of development is crucial to ensure that local children from all backgrounds have the opportunity to immerse themselves in a rural environment such as this development will offer. Although Warboys is a semi-rural village there are many children that do not get the opportunity to truly experience exposure to rural experiences and learning opportunities for various reasons. This classroom will be a valuable commodity to ensure that they can spend time on a working farm, engaging with the animals and learning about farm life, first hand. A designated reception building would offer a dry, safe and warm environment that would allow more groups of children to visit the farm even when the British weather is not on their side.

Children from disadvantaged backgrounds are often significantly disadvantaged themselves. A resource like the one proposed could be incredibly valuable those children, particularly those at school leaving age, as it could spark a real desire to pursue a career within the farming community.

The potential of this development as an educational resource would be a real asset to the local community and beyond, for those not just mainstream schooling, but for those in alternative provision and the ever growing home-school community.

Kind Regards
