Reasons for comment:
Comments:	Further to my previous comment I have discovered that the application for the single dwelling has not been submitted by the applicant who wants to build 5 homes nearby. However I do contest the ownership of this land. I can not believe a small announcement in the Hunts Post which is not even delivered to most of the village is sufficient to claim it without any notification to local residents. We as residents should have been given the opportunity to discuss the matter and there should be an appeal process. I shall do further research into this process and may yet have to take this further up the chain. My previous comments still stand and I also think the house design is totally unsuitable for the village.

Kind regards
